In the past few decades, advances in medical imaging have provided the medical and psychiatric fields with an improved understanding of the effects of addictive substances on the human brain. When Your Client is Impaired: Addiction and Ethical Issues for Attorneys

Tuesday, February 22, 4:00—5:00 P.M. via Zoom.

1.0 hour Ethics CLE credit applied for (Course #441399)

Presented by: Chase Andersen, J.D.

Lawyers often see clients who appear to be suffering from substance misuse, addiction, or other impairments. While it is not our job to diagnose, what is our role, responsibility, and opportunity? How do our biases govern our actions and behaviors? What if the issue is not with a client but with a colleague? The answers are seldom simple. This program will provide an ethical framework for lawyers facing these questions in addition to practical guidance and resources.
